

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

New York City, February 1, 2013

Chronicle runs from February 23 to March 30, 2013 at Denny Gallery
Artists Nadja Frank, Riitta Ikonen, Sarah Kabot and Jackie Mock Opening Reception: Sunday, February 24, 6 - 8 p.m.

Denny Gallery is pleased to announce the exhibition Chronicle, running from February 23rd to March 30th, 2013. Chronicle is a group exhibition with works by Nadja Frank, Riitta Ikonen, Sarah Kabot and Jackie Mock.

The artists featured in Chronicle use their work to express the significance of their relationships to places they have traversed, people they have encountered, and the tools they have used to facilitate social exchange. This interdisciplinary exhibition includes photographs, sculptures, video artworks, and a site-specific installation. Riitta Ikonen has performed in costume to enliven the geographical and cultural loci of her native Finland, and Nadja Frank has traced the course of geological time by layering materials found in a marble quarry in Italy, and recasting the documentation as a video sculpture in its own right. Sarah Kabot has traced her relationship to a professor in sculptures combining photographs she took of the books in his apartment, and Jackie Mock has combined the hair of her artist friends and natural materials taken from Central Park to sculpt replica paint brushes. The works speak to each other, as well - the geological strata

Hair of painters, rose stems, tree branches, enamel paint, and metal documented in Frank's sculptures and photographs of the quarries parallel Mock's indexing of her daily experience by placing every spoon she has used since 2009 in a case of stratified drawers.
